

Application Serial No.: 10/652,787
Art Unit: 2176

Replacement Abstract:

A page is composed by establishing an arrangement of objects to be fitted on to the page and then carrying out an iterative process to minimise a cost function dependent on properties of the arrangement. Computational advantages are obtained by describing such arrangements as slicing structures.